

iloveyourtshirt + dadawan summer contest 2005

T-shirt creation contest « 2D » and « 3D »

Iloveyourtshirt and Dadawan join themselves and organise during this summer 2005 a unique t-shirt creation contest.

The originality of the contest is that it is divided in 2 parts: on one hand you have a 2D t-shirt (work on the illustration support) on the other hand you have the 3D t-shirt: on this part, main work will be asked to reflect on the material, the volume, the contributions etc.....like it is done on a sculpture.

For that part on the contest " 2D" a thema has been chosen and, as a matter of fact it is imposed: "pollution". Pollution considered in its global affects: sonorous, mental, environmental, social, economical and a more corporal pollution. For the 3D free choice has been given for that part of the contest (work realized on the very basic material: the t-shirt itself)

I love your t-shirt

I love your t-shirt has been lauched in October 2004 by David Werbrouck, initially it was an internet project.

The main objectives of the website (<http://www.iloveyourtshirt.com>) is to centralize and collect relevant informations closely linked to the t-shirtworld (design, collector, limited edition, sales, production, trademarks, exchange.....). On the website a gallery has been implemented where visitors are able to dispose t-shirt pictures, you will also find a discussion forum, news and link pages.

The project has been labelised UNCHI Leisure Center (<http://www.unchi.net>).

Dadawan

Founded begin 2004 by David Chauvin, the Dadawan trademark is proposing t-shirts and urban wear clothes which graphics are mainly inspired by the music world, by movies, videogames but also by street art.

Dadawan is also a production laboratory where t-shirts are made in close collaboration with different artists, graphicists and illustrators whether french as international.

The website www.dadawan.com is also proposing different trade names of independent creators, toy designers, but also posters and stickers can be found.
